Pardon me

WITH the arrival of Hari Raya, family members and friends flock to each others' homes to celebrate the occasion. In light of the festive do, many will take the opportunity to seek redemption and make amends for past wrongs.

This year, Tenaga Nasional Berhad (TNB) released its Hari Raya TV commercial (TVC) Lepas tu..., which centres on the fact that no mistake is too great not to be forgiven. The TVC encourages everyone to forgive and ask to be forgiven.

The light-hearted yet meaningful video starts off with the scene of a young boy named Din. He is filmed approaching his father in a crowded room, to seek forgiveness. Din goes on to list down his wrongdoings for the past year which includes scratching his father's brand new car, breaking his mother's cabinet and even running over the house pet, Comel.

Touched by Din's honest gesture, the boy's father, played by famous local comedian Lan Pet Pet, forwards his son.

The short video may not sound like much, yet it sends out a powerful message that there is simply no wrong that cannot be forgiven and that everyone is bound to make mistakes in this world.

TNB's intention was to highlight our local cultural and moral values, clearly seen through the depiction of the short commercial. Watch the video and be moved by the TVC on www.youtube.com/
