Rohas Tecnic bags RM250m contracts from TNB

ROHAS Tecnic Bhd's 75%-owned subsidiary, HG Power Transmission Sdn Bhd, has secured two transmission line jobs totalled RM250 million from Tenaga Nasional Bhd (TNB).

The first contract is for a proposed 500kV double-circuit transmission line from power management unit (PMU) Bentong South to PMU Lenggeng (point M to point L) and a proposed 275kV double-circuit transmission line from PMU Lenggeng to PMU Makhota Cheras (Ampe to point L).

Rohas, formerly known as Tecnic Group Bhd, noted in a Bursa Malaysia filing yesterday that the work scope involves supply and installation of 31.8km of 500kV and 22.3km of 275kV double-circuit transmission lines on turnkey basis. This contract is worth RM127 million and will be completed in 723 days.

The second contract scope is for a double-circuit transmission line from point L to LGNG of the PMU Bentong South to PMU Lenggeng.

HG Power Transmission will supply and instal 31.9km of 500kV and 32km of 275kV double-circuit transmission lines on turnkey basis with contract value of RM123 million in 723 days as well. — TMR
