> Seeking discounts

TNB, please consider this hot weather and show generosity by giving discounts on high electric bills. – V. Gunaseelan, Klang

With such high electricity usage and world oil price slumping, it is time for TNB as a caring company to offer discounts, at least till the end of this year! – Kunakuna

Many households are in the dark over how TNB works out the charges for domestic consumers. I checked with the TNB office and was told that from 0 to 200 kWh, the charge is 0.218 sen per unit, 201 to 300 is 0.334 sen, 301 to 600 is 0.516 sen, and 601 onwards is 0.546 sen. The more you use, the more expensive it gets. I now exercise control to fit my budget. – CT Tan
